

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

SESSION LECTURE

No. 37

Infant Nutrition and Scientific Feeding

Room: 406

Co-Chairs: Zhixu Wang

Ekhard E. Ziegler

Day 2 October 28th (Sunday) 13:30 – 17:00

Time	Speaker	Title
13:30-14:00	Ekhard E. Ziegler University of Iowa, USA	Prevention of postnatal growth restriction: The first week
14:00-14:30	Ferdinand Dr. Haschke Paracelsus Medical University, Austria	Early infant feeding and long-term consequence
14:30-15:00	Jean Pierre Chouraqui University hospital of Lausanne, Switzerland	Human milk oligosaccharides, current state of knowledge and evidence-based benefits
15:00-15:30	Tea Break
15:30-16:00	Danhua Wang Peking Union Medical College Hospital, China	What can we do to promote breastfeeding?
16:00-16:30	Xiaoyang Sheng Shanghai Jiao Tong University School of Medicine, China	Infant sensory development and dietary patterns establish

Zhixu Wang

zxwang@njmu.edu.cn

Professor and dean of department of Maternal Child and Adolescent Health, School of Public Health, Nanjing Medical University. His research focus on the nutrition of the women and children and the study of micronutrients.

Ekhard E. Ziegler

ekhard-ziegler@uiowa.edu

Professor of Pediatrics of University of Iowa and director of Fomon Infant Nutrition Unit. His research interests include nutritional requirements of preterm infants, nutrition and growth of term infants, iron metabolism, iron nutrition of breastfed infants.

Danhua Wang

15910806977@126.com

Chief physician and professor of Pediatrics, Peking Union Medical College Hospital. Her research interests include nutrition and system management of preterm infants.

Ferdinand Dr. Haschke

Ferdinand.Haschke@nestle.com

Professor of department of Pediatrics, Univ. of Vienna and chairman of the Nestle Nutrition Institute. His scientific interests focus on infants and child nutrition, growth and body composition.

Xiaoyang Sheng

shengxiaoyangcn@aliyun.com

Professor and deputy director of child healthcare in Pediatrics department. Her research interests include nutritional deficiency in children.

Jean Pierre Chouraqui

chouraquiip@wanadoo.fr

Lecturer at Ruijin Hospital, Jiao Tong University, Shanghai, and assistant of Pr. Cai Huaxin, as a coach for teaching French medical language to doctors from the Chinese Medical Mission to Morocco. His main current clinical research interests concern Infants and Children nutrition, the importance of probiotics and probiotics on health, food allergy and functional gastrointestinal disorders.